

Notice of Security Incident

Tarter Krinsky & Drogin LLP (“TKD”) is providing notice of a data security event that may have involved certain confidential and attorney-client privileged information related to TKD’s representation of certain clients and, in some situations, personal information of certain individuals. Although we are unaware of any identity theft or fraud occurring as a result of this event, we are providing information about the event, our response, and resources available to help protect personal information, should you feel it appropriate to do so.

What Happened? On September 10, 2025, TKD became aware of suspicious activity within its environment. We then immediately launched an investigation into the nature and scope of the activity with the assistance of third-party forensic specialists. The investigation determined that there was unauthorized access to certain TKD servers at various times between July 9, 2025 and September 9, 2025, and that certain information stored within those servers was viewed or obtained by the unauthorized actor during that time period. Upon learning of this information, TKD undertook a comprehensive review of the affected files, with the assistance of third-party subject matter specialists, to attempt to identify what sensitive information was contained therein and to whom that information related. That review has recently been completed, and TKD is providing notification about the event after determining that certain information related to individuals was contained within the potentially affected files.

What Information Was Involved? Our investigation and review determined that the following types of information varies by individual but were found in the potentially affected files: name and Social Security number, driver’s license number, date of birth, international tax identification number, Passport number, tax identification number or individual tax identification number, financial account information, payment card information, username & password, medical information, health insurance information, and biometric data. Please note that TKD is not aware of any attempted or actual misuse of individuals’ information, or that information was used to commit identity theft or fraud.

What We Are Doing. The confidentiality, privacy, and security of information in our care are among our highest priorities. We promptly notified federal law enforcement upon becoming aware of the referenced suspicious activity. We are reviewing existing security policies and have implemented additional cybersecurity measures to further protect against similar events moving forward. We are also notifying potentially impacted individuals that we had address information for, so that they may take steps to best protect information.

What You Can Do. We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing your account statements and monitoring your free credit reports for suspicious activity and to detect errors. Please also review the information contained in the enclosed STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO HELP PROTECT PERSONAL INFORMATION.

For More Information. We understand that you may have questions about this event that are not addressed here. If you have additional questions, please contact 1-877-520-3879, Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. eastern time, excluding major U.S. holidays. You may also write to us at 1350 Broadway, New York, New York 10018.

Steps You Can Take To Help Protect Personal Information

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:

Additional Information

Consumers may further educate themselves regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps they can take to protect your personal information by contacting the consumer reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission, or their state Attorney General. The Federal Trade Commission may be reached at: 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261. The Federal Trade Commission also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them. Consumers can obtain further information on how to file such a complaint by way of the contact information listed above. Consumers have the right to file a police report if they ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, consumers will likely need to provide some proof that they have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement and the relevant state Attorney General. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.

For District of Columbia residents, the District of Columbia Attorney General may be contacted at: 400 6th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20001; (202) 442-9828; and oag.dc.gov.
